Terms and Conditions — Mackle Corporation Discount Coupon

This document is the official terms for the free Mackle Corporation discount coupon. It is issued only by Mackle Corporation, a Florida corporation, MackleCorp.com.

1. What this is, in one paragraph

A Mackle Corporation coupon is a free discount coupon. You get it free. You can use it, if and when Mackle Corporation offers something for sale, to pay less than the advertised price for that thing. That is all it is.

2. What this is NOT

This coupon is NOT: a share of stock, or any ownership in Mackle Corporation; an investment, a security, or a promise of profit; cash, money, or a refund; a crypto token, a coin, or a blockchain version of anything; free land, a free lot, or a free house; a reservation, a right to buy a specific lot or service, or a right to demand a sale; a vote, a dividend, or a right to any company money. Mackle Corporation does not endorse, issue, operate, or honor any blockchain version, token, or copycat version of this coupon.

3. Free means free

No cost to claim it. No purchase necessary to claim it. No fee to register it, to transfer its registration, or to hold it. No hidden fee. You only pay money if you later choose to buy something from Mackle Corporation, and then you pay the advertised price minus the discount in Section 6. Your name and email are the only required information to claim. Phone is optional.

4. One per person, one customer per coupon

One coupon per person, per email address. One customer per coupon, at any time — a coupon belongs to one registered holder only, not to a group, not shared. Email is the unique key, case-insensitive, trimmed. If you claim twice with the same email, you get your existing coupon number back — you do not get a second coupon. If you want a friend to have one, they claim their own, with their own name and email. If you transfer your coupon, the new registered holder replaces you — you are no longer the holder for redemption, until/unless it is transferred back and re-registered. Mackle Corporation may check for duplicates. Using many different emails to get many coupons for yourself is not allowed, and Mackle Corporation may cancel duplicates.

5. The registry is the truth

Mackle Corporation keeps a registry with: Coupon ID, Holder Name, Email, Date Issued, Source, Status. If it is not in the registry, it is not yours, for redemption purposes. Only the registered holder can redeem a coupon. To redeem, you must be the registered holder at the time of purchase, and you must present your coupon number.

6. How redemption works — and its limits

Discount: 10% off the advertised price, per purchase. Applies to ONLY Mackle Corporation lots and services specifically identified as in the program, at the time of purchase — NOT all lots or services Mackle Corporation owns or offers. A lot or service is only eligible if Mackle Corporation specifically identifies it, in writing, as in the program for that offer. If it is not specifically identified, it is not eligible, even if Mackle Corporation owns or sells it. At launch, eligibility will be by listing a few lots for sale on Mackle Corporation's webpage. Those listed lots, with their advertised / asking price listed, are the specifically identified lots in the program at that time. The 10% discount is FROM that listed advertised price — discounted price = advertised price minus 10%. Limit: One coupon redeemed per purchase, no stacking, unless Mackle Corporation states otherwise in writing for that specific offer. Reusable: A coupon is reusable. It is NOT one-time-only. The same registered coupon can be used again for a later eligible purchase, one redemption per purchase, no stacking per purchase. Mackle Corporation does not guarantee inventory. A coupon does not give you a right to demand a lot, a service, or a sale if none is offered or none is left. Inventory will change over time, as Mackle Corporation buys and sells lots. You are not required to build. If you buy Florida land / a homesite, you can hold it, sell it later, or build later, subject to local law. Seller financing is NOT offered today. Payment is cash, or your own financing, unless Mackle Corporation later offers seller financing in separate, written terms. A coupon cannot be used to pay for stock, cannot be exchanged for cash, and cannot be used to pay taxes, fees, or closing costs unless Mackle Corporation states otherwise for that specific purchase. A coupon has no cash value on its own. Held, it gives you nothing from Mackle Corporation. Used, it gives you money not spent — the discount, and only the discount.

7. Transfer — registered, no company fee, unlimited

You may transfer your coupon to another person. The transfer is only effective when Mackle Corporation registers the new holder in the registry. Mackle Corporation will register a transfer free, and takes no fee, no cut, and no commission on a transfer — 'free' in this section means free from Mackle Corporation, for registration. Until registration, the old holder is still the registered holder. Transfers are unlimited, with free registration from Mackle Corporation, forever. No limit on the number of transfers, and no expiration on transferability.

8. No expiration, no promise of future offers

A coupon does not have an expiration date. That does not mean Mackle Corporation will always offer something you want, at a price you want, or at all. Offers, prices, and inventory are decided by Mackle Corporation at the time, in the ordinary course of business. If Mackle Corporation ever changes these terms, it will notify registered holders by email, and changes will apply prospectively — they will not take away a discount already earned on a completed purchase. Mackle Corporation will not change the free nature of already-issued coupons retroactively to charge a fee for holding them.

9. Contact, privacy, and email

By claiming, you agree Mackle Corporation may email you about your coupon and about Mackle Corporation offers, about once a month, plus your welcome email. Mackle Corporation will use your name and email only for the coupon registry and for Mackle Corporation contact. It will not sell your email. You may ask Mackle Corporation to update your email, or to stop marketing emails, by contacting Mackle Corporation through MackleCorp.com. Stopping marketing emails does not cancel your registered coupon, but you may miss offer notices. Mackle Corporation may re-confirm your contact details from time to time, for example every 6–12 months, to keep the registry accurate.

10. No hype, no profit promise

Mackle Corporation does not promise profit, stock, or any return from a coupon. The only economic benefit Mackle Corporation promises is the discount in Section 6, when you actually buy something offered, as available. Mackle Corporation will not hype coupons as an investment, and will not pay anyone a referral fee, commission, or bonus for getting others to claim coupons, unless that is stated in separate, counsel-cleared terms.

11. History

The Mackle family built over a dozen Florida communities in the 1950s–1980s, through family companies of that era. That history belongs to the Mackle family and those companies, not to the 2019 Mackle Corporation as a builder of those communities, and it is not a promise about Mackle Corporation's future business. Mackle Corporation is a separate, 2019 Florida corporation. These coupons are issued only by Mackle Corporation, MackleCorp.com.

12. Governing law, changes, and questions

Florida law governs these terms. If any part of these terms is found unenforceable, the rest remains in effect. Questions: contact Mackle Corporation through MackleCorp.com, with your coupon number.

Eligible lots and services

Only lots and services specifically identified by Mackle Corporation, in writing, as in the program, at the time of purchase, are eligible. Lots and services currently listed for sale on MackleCorp.com, with advertised prices, are listed there — not in this terms document, so this document does not need to change when inventory changes. The 10% discount is FROM the advertised price listed for each eligible lot or service.
